SYMPOSIUM ON THE ANTITRUST LAWS AND THE HEALTH SERVICES INDUSTRY

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This special issue of the Duke Law Journal is based on the proceedings of a conference on The Antitrust Laws and the Health Services Industry sponsored jointly by the Journal and the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research. Held in Washington, D.C., on December 19-20, 1977, the conference brought together leading legal scholars and practitioners, doctors, economists, government officials and consultants in an effort to explore the significance of increasing antitrust activity in the field of health care delivery and financing. Abbreviated versions of the articles published here were presented and discussed at a lengthy public session and will be published by AEI, together with other papers and discussion, in a volume of conference proceedings.

The Journal is grateful for the significant contributions made by the participants to this issue. The editors wish to express their personal thanks to Professor Clark C. Havighurst of the Duke Law School for his invaluable effort in coordinating the symposium and enabling us to publish this special issue. Financial support for this issue has been provided under Grant No. HS01539 from the National Center for Health Services Research, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.
